VARSITY GAVE MCGILL TEAM FINE BANQUET

Good Feeling Between the Two Teams.

"SHAG" ABSENT.

Speakers Emphasized Vital Importance Of Sport In College Life.

To one who attended the banquet given by the Varsity team in honor of the McGill fourteen after Saturday's game, there could be no doubt as to the relations which exist between the two teams. At 6:30 p.m. about forty sat down to a fine dinner in the big dining room of the Hart House. The Blue and the Scarlet were well intermingled and all were engaged in friendly and animated conversation over the game. Among prominent supporters of intercollegiate rugby present were: Dr. Webster, Chairman of the Dental College; Dr. Barton, Varsity physical director; Prof. Durey, Chairman of the Intercollegiate Union; Prof. Malcolm of Queens, umpire; W. Holmes, Pres. of the Intercollegiate Union; Prof. Griffiths of Ridley; and Mr. Slitter, referee.

After the coffee Holmes proposed a toast to the King, then called upon Prof. Wright, Hon. Pres. of the Rugby Union. Prof. Wright announced that McGill was singularly honored in being the first visiting team to be entertained in the new hall. He paid tribute to the teams for the way in which they played the game and prophesied that the tables would be turned when Varsity visited Montreal.

Prof. Griffiths, who was then called upon, discussed interference plays. In conclusion he urged that if these were to be allowed, both teams should have them all through, and if not, to cut them out altogether. "Remember," he said, "Varsity and McGill with Queens that you are the men who are going to lead this country. Get your sport right and you will have no trouble in keeping the country right."

"Pep" Paisley was then called upon to speak on behalf of the McGill team in the absence of "Shag." He expressed Shaughnessy's regrets that he could not be present being unable to leave Monty who had not recovered sufficiently from his injury to be left alone.

Dr. Webster then referred to the days when he was in the game and urged the boys always to keep an interest in sport of every kind. He pointed out that it was not the sport alone which counts so much in one's life but the good fellows which one meets on the field and the lasting friendships which are there formed.

The good old McGill yell given by both teams then resounded through the new dining hall for the first time. It was followed by the Varsity with no less gusto.

RUSH FOR SEATS AT VARSITY GAME

McGill Supporters Were Unable To Secure Suitable Accommodations At Toronto.

So great was the demand for seats at the Varsity game that those in charge of reserved seats in the grand stand were unable to hold any for the use of the McGill players and their friends, although a number were ordered several days previous to the game by J. Lalanne, secretary of the Council. Disappointment was general amongst the Red and White supporters, who had asked their friends to witness the event, only to find that some accommodation was made only in one end of the bleacher section.

In big games such as are played between Harvard and Yale, the best part of the Stadium is always reserved for the use of the visiting team, and not to do so is considered a breach of etiquette, not by any means trivial in nature. Those seats not to be used by the team are returned some little time previous to the game, to be sold at the gate.

Varsity need fear no trouble in securing reserved tickets for her supporters here, as a large section in the centre of the Stadium has been especially reserved for their exclusive use.

The McGill students who enjoyed thoroughly the Emmanuel Young Peoples Thanksgiving party are heartily invited to come to the Y. P. Hall on Monday next, Nov. 3, at 8 o'clock, Stevens Hall, Drummond street, and bring their comrades with them.

FRESHETTES HUMBLED BY SOPHOMORES

Impressive Ceremony At R.V.C.

GHOSTLY SCENES.

R. V. C. '23 Suffer Great Indignities When Initiated By the Sophs.

A casual pedestrian passing the R.V.C. on Saturday afternoon might not have noticed anything unusual was going on inside those stately walls. But, once inside, it behooved one to take cover, for the Sophs. were initiating the class of '23.

At the appointed hour, the Freshies, suitably attired, and decorated with green ribbons, took their places. The Sophs, masked and clad in white, as the emblem of perfection, stood solemnly around while their victims answered to the roll-call. One by one, the Freshies were called out, "bogged" and tied, then the fun started. First, to the accompaniment of walls and moans, each verdant one was required to roll a basketball down the corridor with her head. This done, she was ordered to exert her lungs to the utmost extent by giving the Freshie yell:

"Maw, Maw, Maw!"

"Paw, Paw, Paw!"

"Rah, Rah, Rah!"

"Milk!"

Next, in preparation for her fate, she shrankly shook hands with Death. But the Sophs were merciful, and not the pallor of their victims, they decided to end the Freshies' sufferings. So, in a dark, mysterious corner, filled with the walls of departing souls, a rope was placed around the victim's neck, and she was told to jump. Somewhat diffident as ever about going first, held back. Mercilessly, however, the Sophs pushed, and the faint heart sank into a bottomless abyss. The Sophomores had decided that for some members of class '23 even this was not enough, so they were commanded to walk the plank. Then, thoughtful as ever, their captors realized that after so much exertion the Freshies stood in dire need of refreshment. Accordingly, ample portions of worms and fishes' eyes were forced into the mouths of the hungry ones. Next, the Freshies were led down, and still further down; the atmosphere became warmer; walling voices, begging for mercy, rent the air; and one by one, each victim was branded with a red-hot coal. For those who survived this ordeal, grapes were provided, which could be obtained by pushing one's face through a few inches of flour. As worms, fishes' eyes and flour were not considered a sufficient improvement to the beauty of the verdant ones, their faces were stamped with the words, "Cheeky Freshie," in bright green. (Continued on page 2.)

A MIXED SING AT STRATHCONA HALL

Y. M. Administration Intends To Hold These Functions Weekly.

The second mixed Sing of the season, which was held in Strathcona Hall last night, was by far the most successful that has taken place in recent years. The Common Room on the second floor of the Hall was literally crowded to the doors with enthusiastic singers from McGill and the R. V. C.

At 8:45, accompanied by piano and violin, the assembled students started singing the old hymns. Until 9:30, without a break, the song continued. At 9:30, the noses of the singers told them that Cap's coffee was ready. And the destruction to the "eats" certainly showed that the efforts of the Y.M.C.A. organization in that line were appreciated. At 9:45 singing was resumed, and lasted until a few minutes to ten.

This second mixed Sing was an absolute and unquestioned success. The administration of the Hall is so encouraged by the splendid turnout last night that it is their intention to make these mixed Sings a weekly fixture in the life of the University.

STUDENTS EIGHT VOL. CONVERSION

Delegates From All Universities To Meet At Des Moines, Iowa.

The call has been issued for the Eighth International Student Convention to be held at Des Moines, Iowa, December 31st to January 4th, under the auspices of the Student Volunteer Movement of North America. These conventions have been milestones in the lives of individual students and in the student associations. In many ways they have been the most dramatic student gatherings in the world. It is expected that eight thousand college men and women from Canada and the United States, with many representatives from other nations, will attend this convention. We ought to hope for at least three hundred delegates from Canada.

Plans are being made for McGill University to be represented by a delegation of twenty students, probably fifteen men and five girls. By arranging for an adequate delegation to this forthcoming convention in the spirit of prayer and high expectation, and by fairly facing there the supreme demands of this day for a new type of heroism, much may be done for our University of McGill, for all Canadian colleges, and through them for the world.

EXTRACTS FROM A.A. REGULATIONS.

"It shall be the duty of the managers of the various clubs who are about to compete in any athletic contest, to submit to the President of the Athletic Association a complete list of the possible competitors in such contest. These names must be submitted at least one day before the contest occurs, otherwise such games may not count toward qualification for insignia.

"No student shall be permitted to participate in any form of competitive athletics unless having been previously examined that session, under penalty of forfeiting any insignia that he may have won, and of being debarred from participation in all University athletics until reinstated by the Executive of the Athletic Association, and a two-thirds vote shall be necessary for such reinstatement."

DENTAL SOCIETY.

There will be an executive meeting of the Dental Society to-day at 4:30 in the Lecture Room, Dental Dept., New Medical Building. 1st and 2nd year representatives are requested to attend.

MANY GRADUATES CALLED BY DEATH IN THE PAST TWO WEEKS. OTHERS MARRIED. L.M.C.C. DEGREE FOR MANY M.D.'S

Tablet Unveiled In Toronto To Late Lt.-Col. J. C. Irving, D.S.O.—Prof. Evans Secured Copyright On New Text Book—Dr. Donald McAlpine, Vet. '94, New Ontario M.L.A. For Brockville—Dr. W. Norman Gilmour, M.C., New President Of G. W. V. A. at Brockville—Dr. George E. Armstrong of Montreal, President of the American College of Surgeons.

Dr. Angus MacDonald, Med. '87, a pioneer resident of St. Paul, Minn., and one of the oldest living McGill graduates, died on October 1 in that city after a year's illness, due to a general breakdown. He was 76 years of age.

Dr. MacDonald was born in Glasgow, Ont., in 1842, was graduated from the University of Ottawa and from McGill, and in 1872 entered upon practice at St. Cloud, Minn. Six years later he moved to St. Paul. He was formerly president of the Ramsey County Medical Society, and was a pioneer member of that organization and of the Minnesota State Medical Association. Dr. MacDonald was also president and founder of the St. George Snowshoe Club. His wife and three sons survive.

Early Saturday morning, October 25, the death took place at the Montreal General Hospital, of Dr. Cranford Loughery, Med. '12, a well-known graduate of recent years. Death was due to pneumonia and complications. The late Dr. Loughery was born at Waterford, N.B., 28 years ago, and attended the Norton, N.B., schools and the Sussex High School before entering McGill. He was also employed for a time in the Bank of New Brunswick at Norton, and with Vassie & Co., St. John. In April, 1913, he was graduated in Medicine with honors, and immediately offered his services to the C.A.M.C. Thereafter he was, until last spring, stationed at Montreal, Quebec and St. John. On receiving his discharge he was attached to the staff of the Montreal General Hospital. Dr. Loughery belonged to the Alpha Kappa Kappa fraternity. Besides his mother, he is survived by two sisters and four brothers. Interment was made at Norton, N.B.

Mariner T. Steeves, who died at Salem, N.B., recently, was the father of Dr. Harold C. Steeves, Med. '12, of Vancouver, B.C.

W. M. Ferrigard, who died in Montreal on October 25, was the father of Dr. E. N. Ferrigard, Med. '08, of Montreal.

Lieut.-Colonel George G. Corbet, Med. '08, of St. John, N.B., has been appointed chief medical officer of the Workmen's Compensation Act Commission and advisory physician and surgeon to that board in the Province of New Brunswick. He will retire from private practice altogether.

The marriage took place on October 22, at Plymouth, England, of Florence, daughter of the late Robert Smith, to Edward Carington MacDermot, Sci. '12, son of the late Rev. Canon MacDermot, Jamaica, B.W.I., and of Mrs. MacDermot, Montreal.

In the presence of many of the comrades-in-arms and friends of the late Lt.-Col. T. C. Irving, D.S.O., past student, a handsome brass tablet erected to his memory was unveiled in Bloor Street Presbyterian Church, Toronto, a few days ago. Lt.-Col. Irving was killed at Passchendaele on October 29, 1917.

THE LAMENT OF AN EX-EDITOR.

(Inscribed to H. R. M. by whose side I had the pleasure of sitting during these old clean years.)

Was down to the Sanctum, to-night, H. R.
Where you and I used to be,
And the change that's come over the office
Was wondrous strange to see.
New faces were bent o'er the oaken desks—
Working as hard as of yore,
But others are filling our shoes, to-day—
For us—Ah! Never—No more.

The place is so changed you would hardly know,
'Twas once what we called "home,"
For the gang that we knew is scattered wide,
And over the world they roam.
They have moved the partition out ten feet—
A separate room has the Ed.,
Oh! The Daily has been through quite a lot,
Since we put the forms to bed.

And I sat me down at the desk, H. R.,
Where you and I often sat,
In the palmy days of old Seventeen,
When we were there at the bat.

The boys were all working about the room—
All doped the dope with a punch,
And I wished I was back with you once more
And the old time carefree bunch.

I felt rather lonely for Mac, you know;
And Clarke of clerical men,
And Bunny and John with their tall tall tales—
Ye ho! for the days we've seen.

While epitaphs now are not written,
Months before people are dead;
And the R.V.C. dope's not a filler,
But football's a thirty point head.

But all that has gone the way of the dust;
The way of the wind and rain,
And though we may live for an aeon,
'Twill never come back again.

For others have come to shoulder the task—
And a thankful one 'tis true,
But give me again the years that have passed
And I'd do it—Yes!—With you.

Lieut.-Col. Archibald Lorne Campbell Gilday, D.S.O., Arts '98, Med. '00, has been demobilized and struck off the strength of the Canadian Expeditionary Forces, after vacating the appointment as Assistant Director of Medical Services, M.D. 4, and resumes his private practice.

Rev. Charles Wesley Crane, Arts '05, pastor of the 42nd Avenue Congregational Church, Chicago, died in that city on October 11, as the result of an automobile accident, according to word which has been received at the University. Rev. Mr. Crane was the son of Rev. Edward W. and Mrs. Crane of Montreal, and had served in churches in the American West and elsewhere. For the last three years he had been a graduate student at the University of Chicago, fitting himself for more adequate and efficient ministry.

Besides his wife, formerly Miss M. A. Buckler, of Regina, Sask., he is survived by two small sons. Funeral services were held at Trinity Congregational Church, Chicago, and interment took place in Ontario.

Dr. F. T. Dunlop, Med. '09, of St. John, N.B., is in New York, attending the convocation of the American College of Surgeons.

The marriage took place in St. Alban's Church, Ottawa, on Saturday, of Miss Caroline Guthrie, daughter of the late Dr. John B. Guthrie, and of Mrs. F. C. House, formerly of Evanston, Ill., to Major William Eric Crommelin Irwin, Sci. '11, of Ottawa.

Rev. James D. Morrison, Arts '65, Episcopal Bishop of Duluth, celebrated his 75th birthday on Thursday last. Bishop Morrison and Mrs. Morrison celebrated their golden wedding at Duluth during the present year.

Dr. Percy C. Leslie, Med. '94, for many years in charge of a mission hospital in China, has returned to Canada from overseas service, and is at present residing in Montreal West.

Dr. Frank R. England, Med. '05, is attending the convocation and clinical congress of the American College of Surgeons, in New York City.

The following have passed the examinations of the Medical Council recently held in Montreal: Drs. G. N. Belyea, Med. '18; A. C. Farlinger, Med. '18; R. A. D. Gillis, Med. '15; M. W. Lebel, Med. A copyright has been entered in the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa for "Laboratory Manual to Accompany Elementary Chemistry for Hight Schools," by Prof. Nevill Norton Evans, Sci. '16, and M.C. Coll. McFee, Arts '05 Sci. '08.

Major Norman Kerr, Med. '39, who has been stationed in a military hospital in the Eastern States, has just been transferred to Fort Sheridan, Ill.

McGill has at least one representative in the recently-elected Ontario Legislature in Dr. Donald McAlpine, Vet. '94, who was returned with a majority of over 1,000 in the hitherto Conservative riding of Brockville. Dr. McAlpine stood on the Liberal platform and defeated A. E. Donovan, M.L.A. for Brockville for the last 12 years. The large "dry" vote piled up in the referendum contest in the same riding is largely due to the efforts of Major the Rev. W. F. McConnell, Arts '14, who acted as organizer for the referendum.

Mrs. A. A. Davis, Ottawa, announces the engagement of her daughter, Ouida Ethel, to William Egbert Cockfield, M.Sc., Ph.D., Arts '13, son of H. M. Cockfield, Arts '23, and Mrs. Cockfield, Montreal. The marriage will take place in November.

Albert Legault, Sci. '16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Legault, Smiths Falls, Ont., was married recently in St. James Cathedral, Montreal, to Miss Juanita Hickey, daughter of Mrs. Christina Hickey, London, England.

Dr. W. Norman Gilmour, M.C., Med. '10, has been elected president of the G.W.V.A. branch at Brockville, Ont.

A bulletin of the Commission of Conservation of Canada, edited by W. J. Dick, M.S.C., Sci. '08, has just made its appearance. The pamphlet is entitled "Pulverized Fuel, Its Use and Possibilities," and treats of this subject exhaustively.

Dr. George E. Armstrong, Med. '77, was on Friday, Oct. 24, elected president of the American College of Surgeons, which is in session at the dorf Astoria, New York City, to succeed Dr. William J. Mayo, of Rochester, Minn. Dr. Armstrong will take office at the next meeting of the clinical congress, in the autumn of 1920. The election to this office is considered by surgeons the highest honor in the profession. Dr. Armstrong is at present Professor of surgery in McGill chief surgeon of the Royal Victoria Hospital and consulting surgeon to other leading Montreal hospitals.

Dr. J. F. L. Brown, Med. '17, has resigned as district health officer for the southern district of New Brunswick.

THE TREASON OF MCGILL.
—T. J. K.

It is rather a bold statement to make when one considers the enviable record which the University has built up for itself during the dark years just flown by. I refer to the statement that McGill is guilty of treason.

For five years every resource within the walls of Old McGill was commandeered by the Faculty in order to further the cause of Justice and the triumph of Right, and while we are patting ourselves on the back — or standing a trifle proudly whilst other people do it — we forget, or perhaps never think of the spectre which was ever at our elbows during the "bad times," as one who is an Irishman may be permitted to call them.

Yes! During all those years of war and fighting, through all those dreary days when Hope had almost deserted from our ranks, and we wondered if the day to come would bring defeat or victory; week in and week out while mothers wept over the sons gladly, if they might be sent to battle that Freedom might live and Truth triumph; every minute of this time, mark you, McGill flaunted her love for the tyrant and displayed blatantly before our eyes the result of his ingenuity. There was none of that "Here's something he did. Let's do even better." No; not at all. It was not as if we were an object lesson in the desire to beat the braggard, but merely the careless indifference to public sentiment and opinion — a direct blow to the heart of Democracy.

What would you think of a man who, when his wife was in the process of being murdered stood indifferently by and pointing to an axe with which the deed was committed, said, "See that axe? Well, I made it. Isn't it handy?" That's right; I'd think the same myself. Now, if it had been his mother-in-law, there might have been an excuse for him. But with him, as with McGill, it was different.

It was her own sons who were being murdered. It was her daughters who knelt one, purloined one and turned the heel of a seven-inch sock so that it might be used for anything from a tea cosy to a hammock. And what of all these sacrifices? Were they taken into account? No! No! Thrice No!!!

How many times has a student, weary with marching around the Mountain, or over it, or under it, or any place at all so long as he was weary, flagged in body and sore in soul, how many times has he gone into the library to consult some book on military tactics that he might the better play at war, wished to read what others had done in the poppy blown fields of Flanders, went into the same library. Many times, you will answer, and you will be correct. And how many times has that same student, just as weary and as flagged as above described, been forced to submit calmly to the rule of the reprobate — to secure, if I may go so far as to say this, the very book he requires with the aid of the Hun — the direct aid of the Hun?

Why it's — it's hum-mentionable!!!! And there sat the Faculty through all of those five awful years, described at length above. Never a finger they raised — never a word of protest. Such great men they were, too — elephants, as it were, in our small college world. Yes, elephants, even to the ivory.

What must the student coming to McGill for the first time think of us — and of them? I leave this to your imaginations.

You may have concluded that these are the ravings of a man whom the war has affected in the cerebellum, but this is not so.

I will prove to you the treason of McGill.

I will show you where you may see for yourselves the publicity McGill has given the blackguard of Berlin. Go into the library. Look up the card files for a book — any book, as this is only a means to an end. Go over to one of the small tables near the files, sit down, and take up a small bit of paper provided for the purpose of writing the book reference on. Take the pencil provided also, and then — Steel your nerves. Look at the base of the spring holding the pencil. Do you see it?

If you are an R.V.C. student, faint. If you are one of the mere majors, say "Damn" or "Hell."

Stronger explicatives furnished on application, if a stamped and addressed envelope is enclosed.

FRESHETTES HUMBLÉD BY SOPHOMORES

Then they were looked in the gym. until the lordly Sophomores should be pleased to enter and teach them the McGill and R.V.C. yells and "Hail, Alma Mater." The Sophomore president read the rules, and, in order to relieve the monotony, the Sophomores decided that they would be entertained by the Freshies. The youthful ones displayed such poor talent, however, that, unable to stifle their groans any longer, the Sophs. ordered them to have done, and took them up to the Common Room, where refreshments were provided. On a small table in the centre of the room stood a huge green and white birthday cake, with "Freshies, '23" written on it, and one lone candle burning in the middle. The food promoted a feeling of good-fellowship between the members of the two classes. The Freshies cheered the Sophs., the Sophs. cheered the Freshies, and after a few dances, everyone sang "Hail, Alma Mater" and went her way in peace.

FIFTEEN THOUSAND SEE McGILL DEFEAT VARSITY

Flanagan and Seath Scored Touches—Monty and Flanagan Forced To Retire From Game Owing To Injuries—Gilhooly Tackled Well and Laffoley Played Good Game—Breen Played Stellar Game For Varsity—Score 16-3.

Fifteen thousand Toronto fans turned out at the Varsity Stadium on Saturday to witness the Blue and White carry off the laurels in the third Senior Intercollegiate fixture, and as the teams came on the field gave them a great ovation. Before the kick-off two thousand Varsity rooters stood up and sang a doxology of consolation for McGill. Within a few minutes of the time when the whistle was first blown it was clear to everyone present that it was the men in blue who were to need the consolation, and the ultimate score of sixteen to three in favor of McGill is a very good ration of the relative strengths of the two aggregations.

The morning was without rain, and although the sun was at no time visible, yet the grounds were almost dry when the teams lined up. McGill lost no time in getting down to business, and gaining yards after yards by tearing through the Varsity line, they came within five yards of the touch line. For the first time the blue line held, and McGill was forced to kick for a rouge. With one counter to their credit the men went into the game with a determination that was indicative of victory, and the crowd of spectators, in silent admiration, watched what was in reality a machine, as it ploughed down the field time after time with disastrous effect upon the chances of success for the home team.

During the second quarter the Varsity line held better, and both teams did a lot of kicking. In this respect the Red and White were crippled. Flanagan, who hurt his shoulder during the early stages of the fight, was without the use of his right arm, but he pluckily stayed with the team, but was unable to do himself justice in booting the pigskin. Joe Breen, who kicked for Varsity, was, on the other hand, in first class shape, and the three points which they pegged up were the result of his fine punting. He was, in addition, perhaps the most speedy man on either team, and on three consecutive occasions, when it seemed certain that McGill would rouge, he outwitted the whole team and succeeded in carrying the ball well out in front of the goal line.

During the final quarter, McGill suffered a severe loss. Flanagan, unable to continue in the game, was forced to go off, and was replaced by Laffoley. Montgomery received a hard knock on the head, which resulted in a slight concussion of the brain, so that he was unable to remember his signals, and had to be replaced by Wallace. Seeing men lived up, and for a time it seemed certain that they would pass the line for a try. Temporarily stunned by the loss of "Monty," the line seemed unable to hold, but a fine and run by "Dud" Ross and several fine punts by Laffoley put them on their feet again. From this time on things went well for the Red and White, and before the whistle blew the score was padded up with another six.

It would be erroneous to try to single out any player as outstanding in the game. It was not won by individual playing but by unity and co-ordination of individual effort, with the result that the total resembled more a machine than a team with fourteen separate units. Considered from every point of view, the team is almost beyond criticism, and few are in doubt as to the result of the two scheduled games yet to come.

The McGill team were first on the field, being given a good cheer by the crowd. Five minutes later the Toronto men appeared, and shortly after this the game started with McGill kicking off against the wind. Varsity returned to centre field, but the Red and White lost the ball on their first down, regaining it, however, when Breen punted to Flanagan on his ten yard line. McGill now showed their superiority by ploughing right up the whole length of the field, mainly by using line plunges and fake bucks. They were ripping large holes in their opponents line, and when Seath got away to a thirty yard run through a broken field, the ball was brought to Toronto's ten yard line. Two bucks were now tried by the Shags' men, leaving them two yards to go on their third down. At this point, Monty decided to play safe and gave the signal for a kick, which resulted in Varsity being forced to rouge, thus registering the first score for McGill.

After this reverse, the U. of T. came right back, and following an exchange of punts, after which McGill lost possession for outside, Breen kicked a successful one from near centre field to near the dead line for a rouge. Encouraged by their success, the Blue and White tried hard, and after obtaining possession of the ball by intercepting a pass, Breen punted over another rouge. This gave the home team the lead, the score being 2-1.

Undaunted by this handicap, the Red and White started to play in earnest, and following an exchange of kicks, they worked the ball right down to their opponents' 10-yard line, mainly by means of line plunges, with Anderson and Flanagan doing most of the carrying. The latter made an especially good run to Toronto's 10-yard line. McGill gained nine yards on their first two downs, and on their third tried to buck the ball over for a try, but they failed by inches, thus losing the ball to their opponents. Breen got away to a twenty yard end run, but Varsity lost the ball, in attempting a kick, for interference. At this point Anderson and Seath came across with two good gains that left McGill only five yards to go. On the next play, Flanagan broke through the centre and carried the ball across for the first try of the game. He converted. This gave McGill a lead that proved sufficient to win the game for them. Shortly after play was resumed the whistle blew for quarter time. Score: McGill, 7; Varsity, 2.

SECOND QUARTER.

The second quarter opened with the visitors in possession of the ball at the home team's 40-yard line. Flanagan kicked to the five-yard line on the first down, and following an exchange of punts with Breen, U. of T. was forced to rouge.

Play was resumed with the home team in possession of the ball. They gained their yards. Gallery was put off by the referee for three minutes for indulging in rough work. Varsity lost ten yards when a pass went loose. Following this, a punting duel left the ball well in centre field. Ambridge was put off for becoming too scrappy and Gallery came on again. The home team lost twenty yards when an attempted kick was blocked. A combination play lost them another ten yards, due to good work on the part of McGill's wing men. Breen gained fifteen yards on an end run, and, following an exchange of punts, Toronto had possession at centre field. They succeeded in gaining their yards once, but the Red and White line stiffened, so that they held their opponents and got hold of the ball. Flanagan punted on the second down, and Varsity returned. Montgomery went through for a substantial gain. Following this, a punting duel ensued, which resulted in advantage to neither side. At this stage, the Blue and White were attempting end runs and combination plays, but the McGill wings always seemed to be just at the right spot, so that almost invariably these attempts resulted in large losses of ground. Shortly afterwards, half time was called, with the play ranging around the centre of the field.

Score at half time: McGill, 8; Varsity, 2.

THIRD QUARTER.

The third quarter started with the U. of T. kicking off to Gallery, who ran up twenty yards before he was stopped. Hall replaced Ambridge, who had injured his shoulder. This period proved to be perhaps the most evenly contested portion of the game. Several times the Blue and White were forced back dangerously close to their goal line, but they always managed to hold fast in the pinches. Just after play was commenced, Shatz, who had been playing a good game for the home team, was injured, being replaced by Brown. At this point the McGill machine got going smoothly again, and time after time they gained their yards. Flanagan, Ross and Anderson making large advances. Finally, on a combination play, Parking brought the ball to the home team's 10-yard line. Three bucks were then tried, but Varsity just managed to hold the visitors in front of their line, thus obtaining possession of the ball almost on their own line. On the next play, however, the Red and White broke through and tackled Breen behind the goal line for a safety touch, thus counting, adding two more points to their total.

On the resumption of play, an exchange of punts left McGill in possession of the ball at centre field. Anderson and Cope went through in succession for yards. Flanagan ploughed through for substantial gain. This brought the ball to within ten yards of U. of T.'s goal line, but again the Blue and White stiffened in their play, so that McGill lost possession. Breen kicked to Gallery, who dropped the ball owing to a very hard tackle. Toronto punted to Flanagan at the visitors' 25-yard line, and obtained the ball on the next play on account of McGill interference. Breen then booted the pigskin across the dead line, scoring the third and last point for Varsity. At this point time was called for the end of the third period.

Score: McGill, 19; Varsity, 3.

FOURTH QUARTER.

The final quarter was simply a

HAMILTON DEFEATED ARGOS. MONTREAL THRASHED OTTAWA

Tigers Scored Sensational Touch in Last Two Minutes of Play—Final Score 9-6—Game At Montreal Ended 15-3 For the Home Team.

Realizing that on Saturday's game rested the fate of both Toronto Argonauts and the Hamilton Tigers, as far as their 1919 championship hopes were concerned, a smashing big crowd turned out to see the Big Four fixture at Hamilton. Both teams were at top strength. Argos admitted they had their best line-up out and that they would have no excuse if they failed to win. Tigers were also at top strength, in fact in better shape than at any time this season, three extra weeks having afforded some of the veteran players who turned out late in the season that much more opportunity to round into proper condition. It was anticipated that the game would prove a tough battle. Tigers were called to win because of their continued improvement, and the fact that they were playing on the home lot. Argos, who were called to win the Big Four honors easily at the beginning of the season, have lost ground because of Montreal's unexpected victory at Toronto last week. Even so, there was practically no betting. The oarsmen supporters looked for odds and it was not forthcoming. Tigers were expected to win, but only after a hard struggle, in which the least mistake might cost them their chance for the championship.

The field was a bit slippery and uncertain. Friday's showers had much to do with this, and at times on Saturday rain threatened. Conditions were far from ideal, but the fact failed to bother the Tiger supporters to any extent. They were on hand in greater numbers than any previous game this season, and yellow mums were at a premium in local florists' shops early in the day. It was a real Hamilton football to root, with just enough Argos supporters to make things worth it.

During the first quarter the Hamilton had possession of the ball and did not fail to make good use of it. Argos obtained the ball once for interference, but lost it almost immediately for the same offence. On regaining the ball, the Tigers made use of some very clever criss-cross plays and end runs, all three backs making good gains, and finally succeeding in scoring a rouge, following a kick by Leadley.

Play then became fast and furious, and by half time it was anybody's game. At three-quarter time Tigers had succeeded in scoring another rouge. Argos, however, managed to pile up four rouges and a safety touch during the same time. A great deal of rough play occurred during this part of the game, necessitating severe measures on the part of the referee. At the beginning of the last quarter Tigers pressed Argos hard, and, thanks to a 30-yard run by McKelvey, succeeded in scoring a rouge, making the score—Argos, 6; Tigers 8. With two more minutes to play, Hamilton scored a touch, which they converted amid scenes of great enthusiasm. Stuart, left middle, Brown, right outside, Henderson, left outside, Reaume. Referee—Tommy Riddell. Umpire—Silver Quilty.

MONTREAL-OTTAWA GAME.

Ten thousand football maniacs turned out to witness the all-important Montreal-Ottawa interprovincial clash on Saturday afternoon. The game was started on a heavy field with the local fourteen as strong favorites after the solid victory over Argos in Toronto, though the strengthened Ottawas were conceded a good chance of victory. One last moment change was made in the M.A.A.A. line-up, Davidson replacing the Reverend H. S. Laws in the scrum-mage.

Owing to the muddy condition of the field, tumbling was a very frequent occurrence. But in spite of losing the repetition of the others, with "Shag" men always having the better of the play. After a long punting duel between Breen and Flanagan had taken place, Montgomery, McGill's captain and quarterback, received a kick in the head that forced him to retire. Wallace took his place. Just after this, Flanagan, who had been playing the greater part of the game with a severely injured shoulder, was replaced by Laffoley, who immediately punted to the Varsity 10-yard line. At this late stage the Blue and White seemed suddenly to gather strength for a last desperate effort, and for the next few minutes played a better brand of Rugby than they had yet displayed during the whole game. They bucked right down the field, finally punting Ross got away with a twenty-yard dash, and Laffoley kicked. Toronto returned to Gallery. After Ross had made another gain, Laffoley engaged in a punting duel, in which he had a distinct advantage, and in one of these exchanges, following a beautiful kick, a Varsity half back dropped the ball behind his own goal line and Seath fell

R.M.C. INTERMEDIATE TEAM DEFEATED McGill SATURDAY

Final Score 10-0 In Favor Of Kingston—Both Teams In Good Condition—R.M.C. Showed Better Training—Dinner At College Followed the Game.

At Kingston on Saturday the McGill Intermediates were defeated by R.M.C., the score being 10-0. When the two teams lined up at 4 p.m. the weather was grey and fairly cold. This continued throughout the game, the sun never showing at all. The field was muddy and very slippery, the ground having been previously soaked by 24 hours' rain. The new bleachers and the grand stand were about three-quarters full, but there was no organized rooting.

The game was a hard struggle which never lagged from beginning to end. Both teams were in good condition. R.M.C., of course, being in the better due both to having a training table, and their whole mode of life. The train journey, too, had an adverse effect on the Red and White, which was particularly evident in the fourth quarter. Then the R.M.C. team as a whole was faster than McGill, which made the tackling on such a muddy ground very difficult. The McGill team was heavier, thought not by so much as had been expected. This, however, did not make so much difference, since R.M.C. relied chiefly on their end runs. Mundell kicked for R.M.C. with great precision, and Chisholm did some fine work in the last two quarters for McGill. Therefore, it seems that R.M.C. won because of their greater speed, both in running and in getting down on the ball. It is also a fact that this was the first real game that the Intermediate team has played.

Throughout, it was a hard played game. The tackling in general was not altogether as good as it might have been, especially in the first quarter. The state of the ground accounts largely for this. Nevertheless, exceptionally good tackling was done by Eric Parsons and Ross. The latter did some very good work in breaking through the R.M.C. line. Parsons showed up well at quarter, and was up to his usual form.

R.M.C. kicked off. The first quarter was marked chiefly by kicking when- ever opportunity offered by both sides, and in all cases on the second or even the first down. Nothing much was gained by this, and the line was moving continually, being at one time on the fifteen-yard line of McGill and then on that of R.M.C. During the latter half of the quarter, Kearns made a spectacular 28-yard run from about the centre, down the side of the field. He was about to repeat this performance when the referee called an offside.

During the rest of the quarter, which was still marked by kicking, McGill was bucking the R.M.C. line continually. Russell, of the R.M.C., made two end runs. During the first minute of the second quarter Russell made a long run at the end of which he scored a touchdown, but it appeared that he had done so from a forward pass. After an exchange of kicks, Chisholm made a 20-yard run. After a further exchange of kicks, Little made a very spectacular dash. The rest of the quarter was marked by kicking.

Nothing had been scored by either ball to Ottawa on this account, M. A. A. scored a rouge, after securing the ball through a similar mishap. Ottawa retaliated, scoring on a kick of Gilhooly's, evening the score for the end of the first quarter.

During the second quarter, Montreal succeeded in scoring two more rouges, after a hard-fought struggle up and down the field. After half time Montreal scored two touches and a rouge, failing, however, to convert the first of the tries. Ottawa also crossed the line for a try, which they also failed to convert.

The final score was: Montreal, 15; Ottawa, 6.

on it, thus scoring the second try of the game for McGill. Laffoley converted. This ended the scoring, for shortly afterwards time was called for the end of the game, with the play ranging well in the centre of the field.

Final score: McGill, 16; Varsity, 3.
